EUROPEAN DIVIDEND GROWTH FUND A GBP

FUND FACTSHEET - AS AT 31 MARCH 2018

OBJECTIVES

FUND AIM

The investment objective is to generate income and capital growth by investing in a concentrated portfolio of equities selected from European markets. Overwhelmingly, but not exclusively, the managers invest in companies that are at the larger end of the capitalisation scale.

INVESTMENT STYLE

The Fund invests in wealth creating companies at attractive valuations. Building concentrated portfolios from the bottom up, unconstrained by the composition of the Fund's benchmark index, the managers seek to make a small number of long-term investments, primarily in growing companies, with strong management and operating in favourable business environments.

COMMENTARY

The Fund fell by 2.2% in March and the market by 3.3%. Linde and Eramet, both in the Materials sector, were two of the fund's greatest detractors over the month, suffering from profit taking after strong runs. These investments represent two of our top Margin Improvement stories and we remain committed long term holders. Our underweight in financials contributed a full percent of the relative performance; on the whole, European banks fail to meet the five key criteria of a wealth creating business that we look for. Most importantly they suffer from very low earnings visibility and are generally shareholder unfriendly / indifferent. Moreover, the internet is adding new waves of competition further reducing visibility, and any prospect of better pricing and higher interest rates boosting margins. The new holding of Elekta was our biggest individual stock contributor of the month.

As an example of how the banking industry is changing, a new Swedish mortgage company called Enkla.com has just announced the intention to grow its mortgage book from nothing to £8.5bn (3% market share) over an 18 month period. Enkla.com is offering three year fixed rates more than half a percent below the average market pricing (i.e. 0.95%). Enkla.com is able to offer these rates by funding its mortgages through residential mortgage backed securities offered directly to institutional investors. Enkla.com is not a bank and will not carry the mortgages on its own balance sheet therefore bypassing the banking system and its capital requirements. This is similar to the situation in Holland where 10% of new mortgages are bought by insurance companies.

We saw the new LafargeHolcim CEO, Jan Jenisch. We know him from his time in Sika, the Swiss chemical company.

The thesis is that Lafarge has enviably strong global market positions in cement, but a very poor record of generating earnings. Mr Jenisch has signalled that he wants the company's focus to be on profitability. He has reduced the number of KPI's to a simple focus on EBITDA growth, cash conversion, EPS growth and ROIC. For those aware of our five key attributes, the fact that Mr Jenisch is actively targeting three of them is constructive. To underscore this cultural change he has changed many divisional heads and has appointed Géraldine Picaud Chief Financial Officer. She comes with an excellent track record as Group CFO at Essilor International (global leader in ophthalmic optics company).

Large value destructive M&A deals are firmly off the agenda, just bolt-on acquisitions in existing markets that add value. Jenisch believes centralisation cannot work for a company operating in 54 countries at 2,300 production sites. Each country's management will be empowered to make pricing and acquisition decisions. In parallel, admin costs can be reduced by 20%, generating CHF400m in savings from Q1 2019. Significant profit improvement opportunities exist in aggregates and ready mix concretes and should be achieved through better benchmarking. Although Lafarge appears to have a higher valuation rating than Heidelberg Cement (based on consensus estimates), we are happy to pay up for a company with greater potential for shareholder value creation.
